

An Introduction to Health Integration

Rich Warrington;

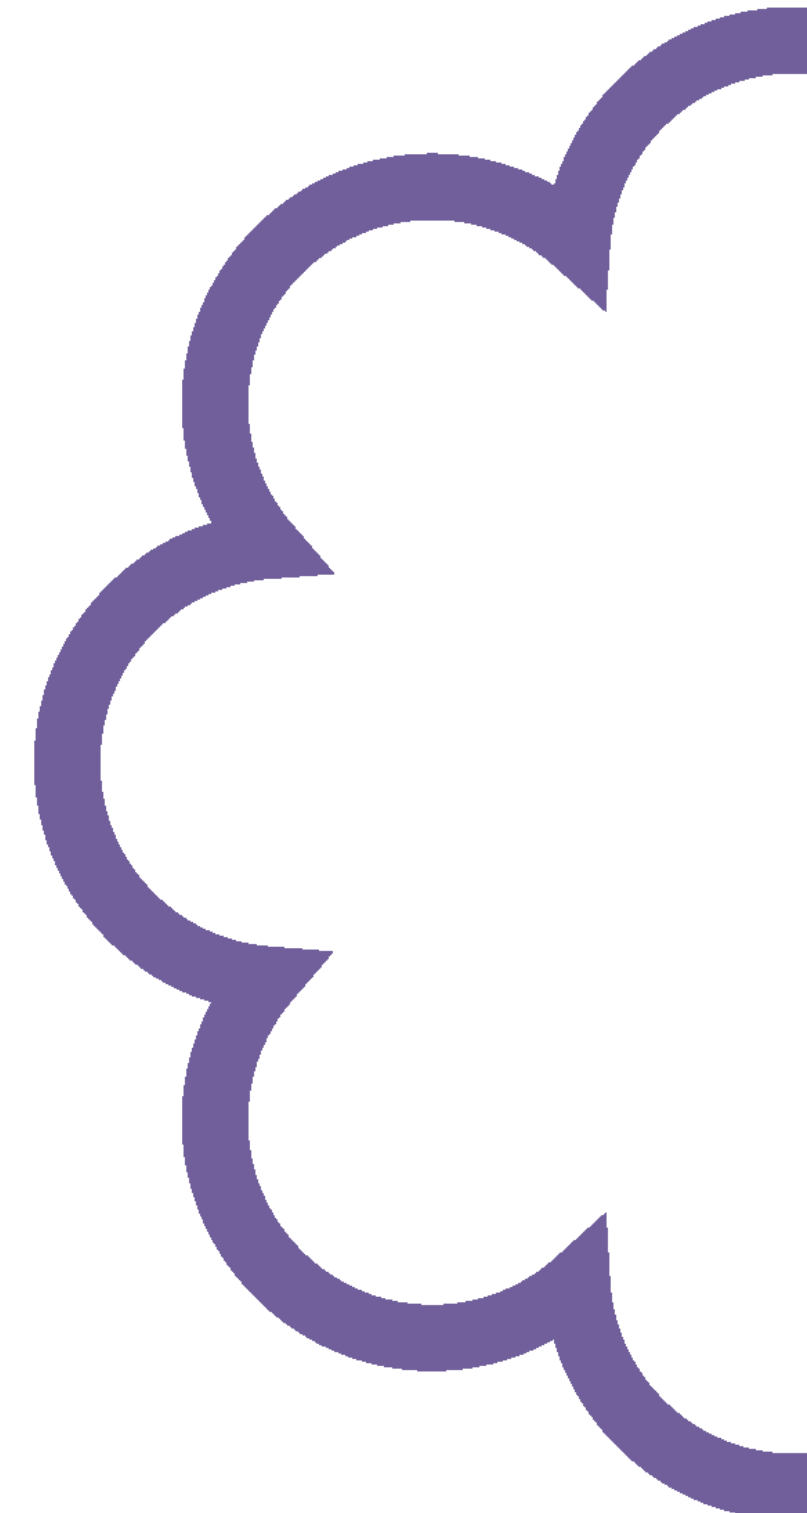

Co-Ordinator Networks and Forums - VAL

What I'll cover

- Some of the big health challenges and the planned solutions
- The role of the third sector
- The structural changes that will deliver this
- Thoughts on opportunities and challenges

What we're all trying to achieve

Big challenges and Big Solutions

We need to tackle health inequalities...

...But we are held back by...

- Fragmented services
- That are too focused on fixing problems rather than preventing the problems occurring

We can start to fix this by...

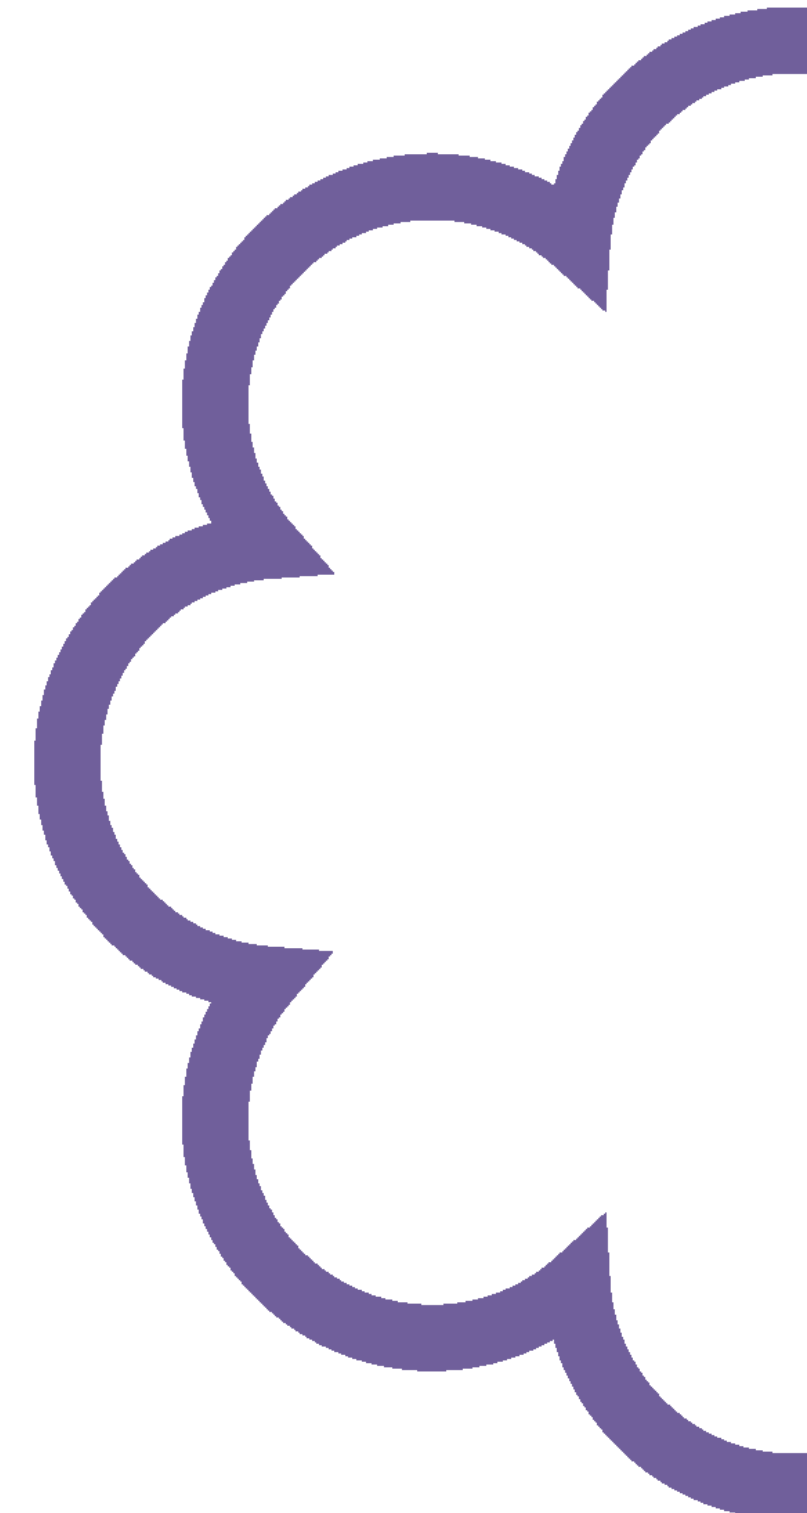

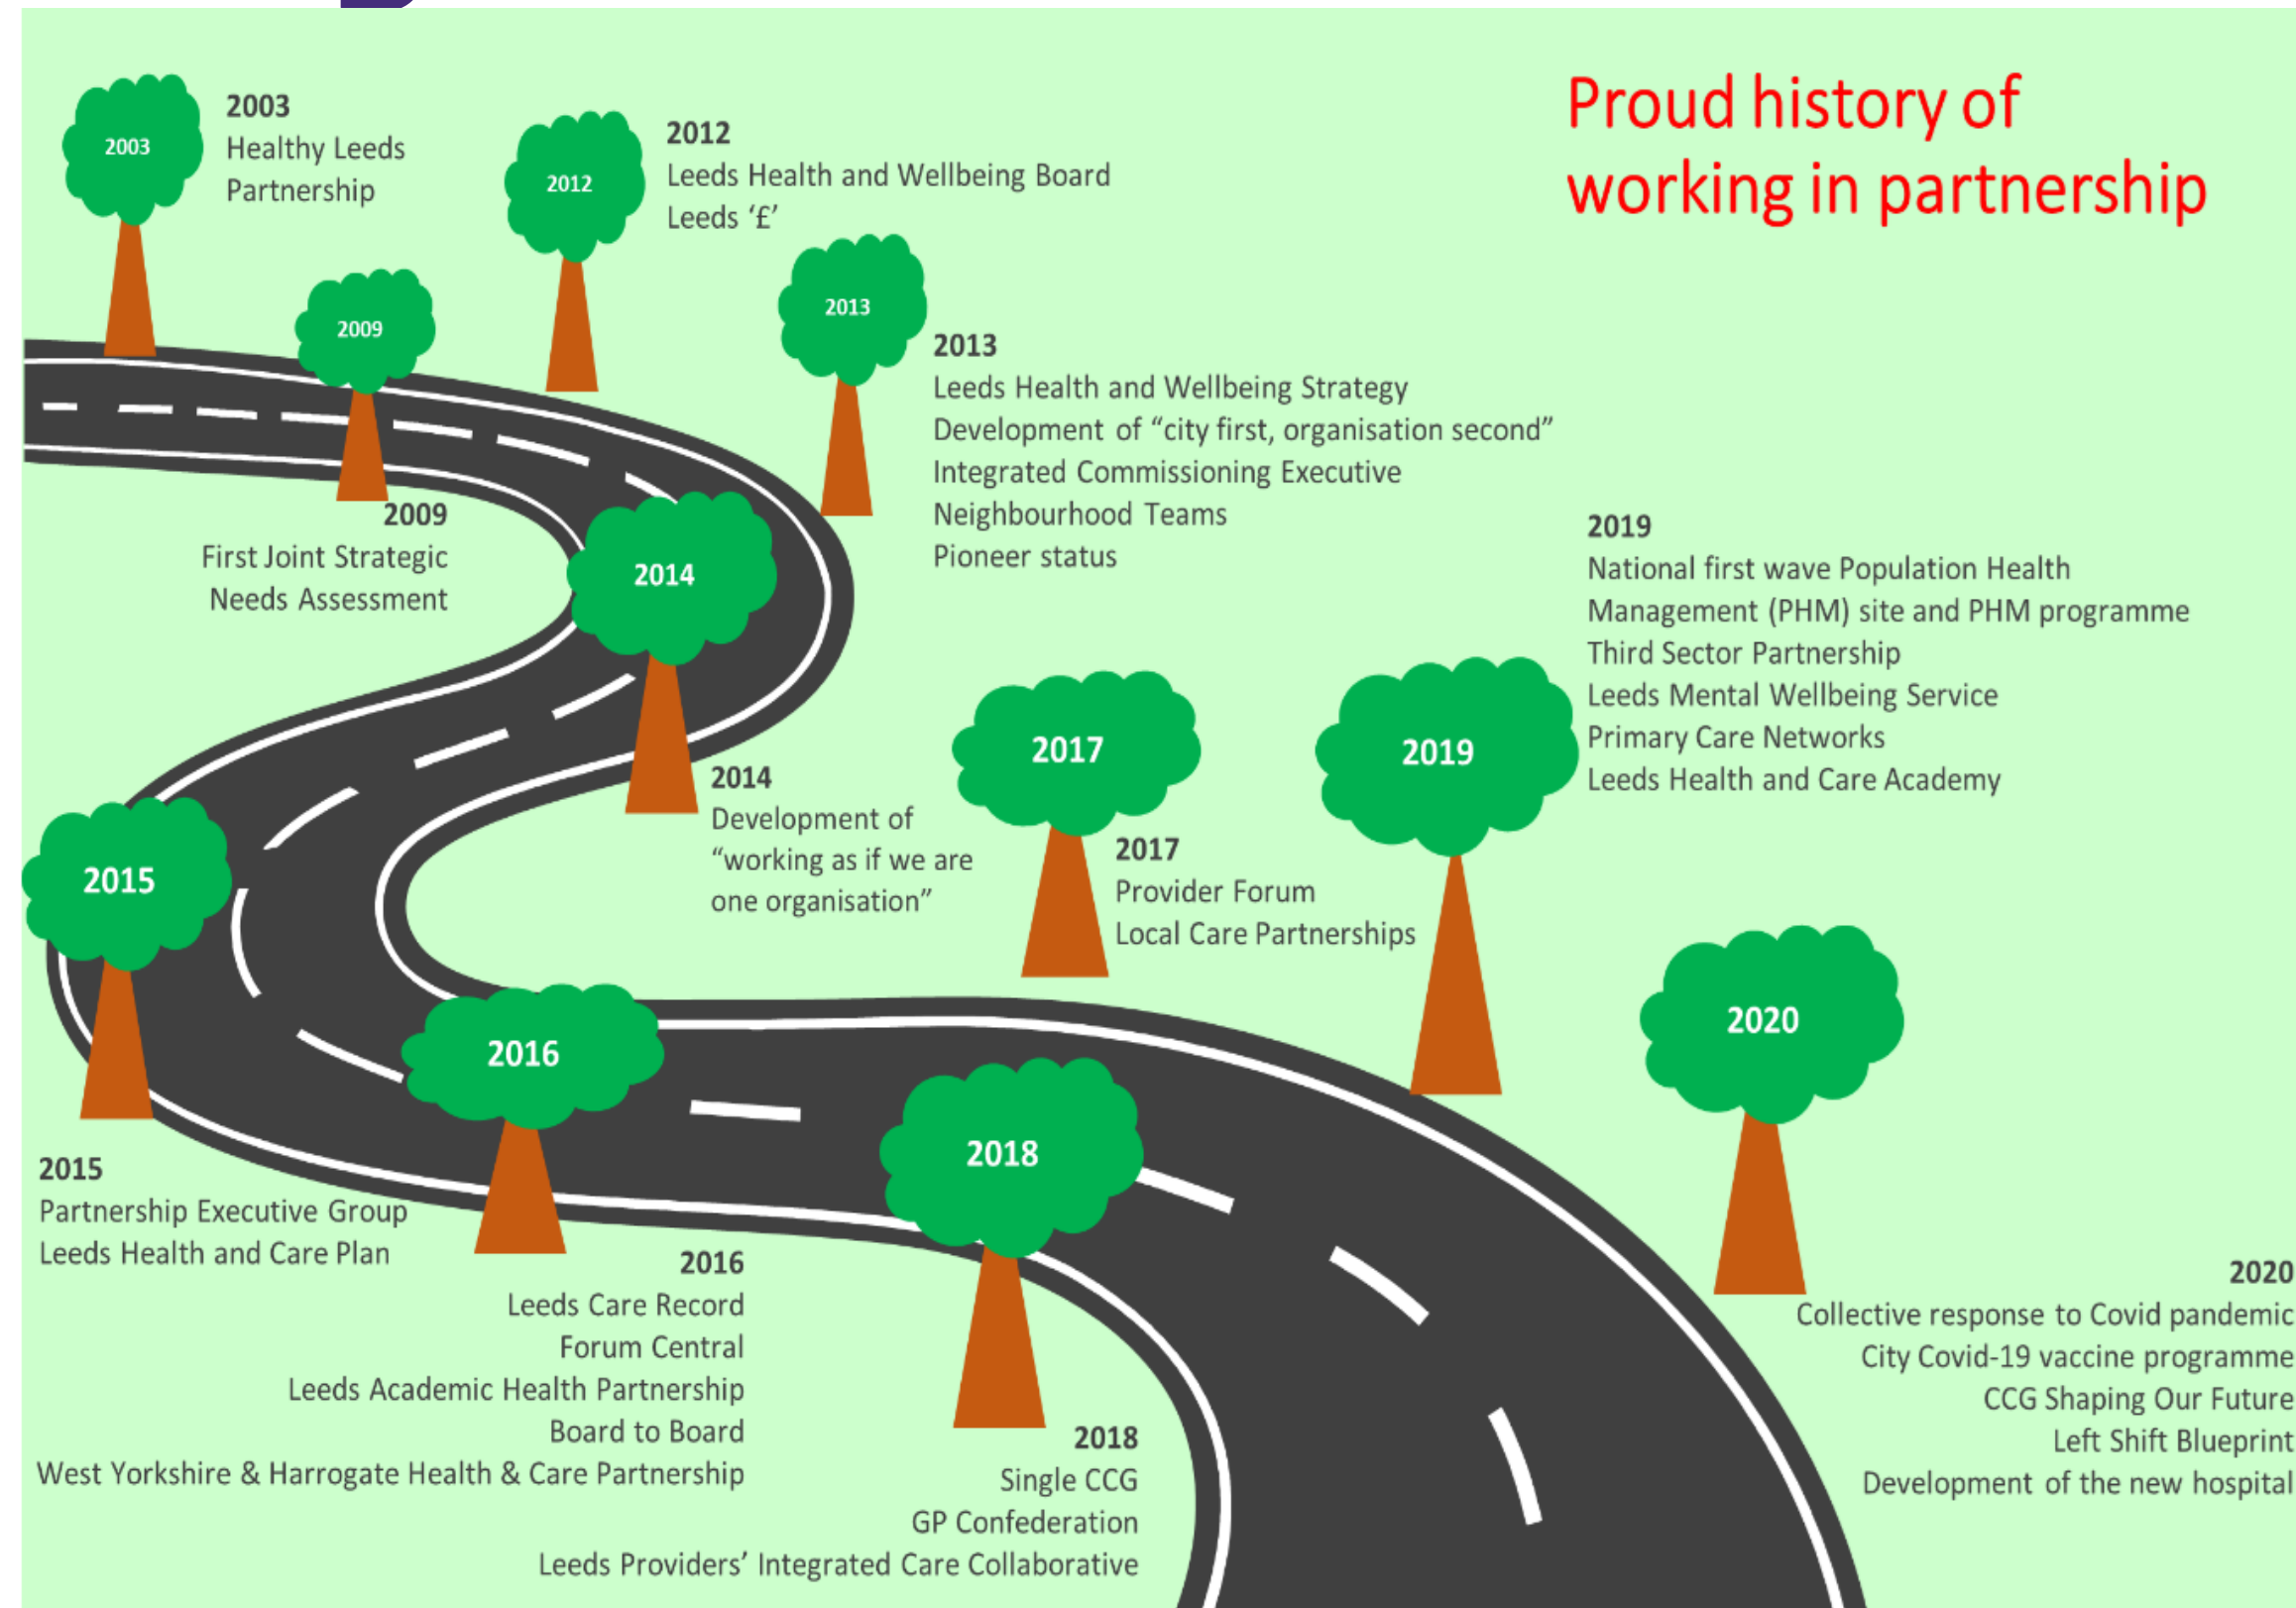

- Working together better (all sectors)
- Whole system planning (and using data)
- Working with communities to adapt services

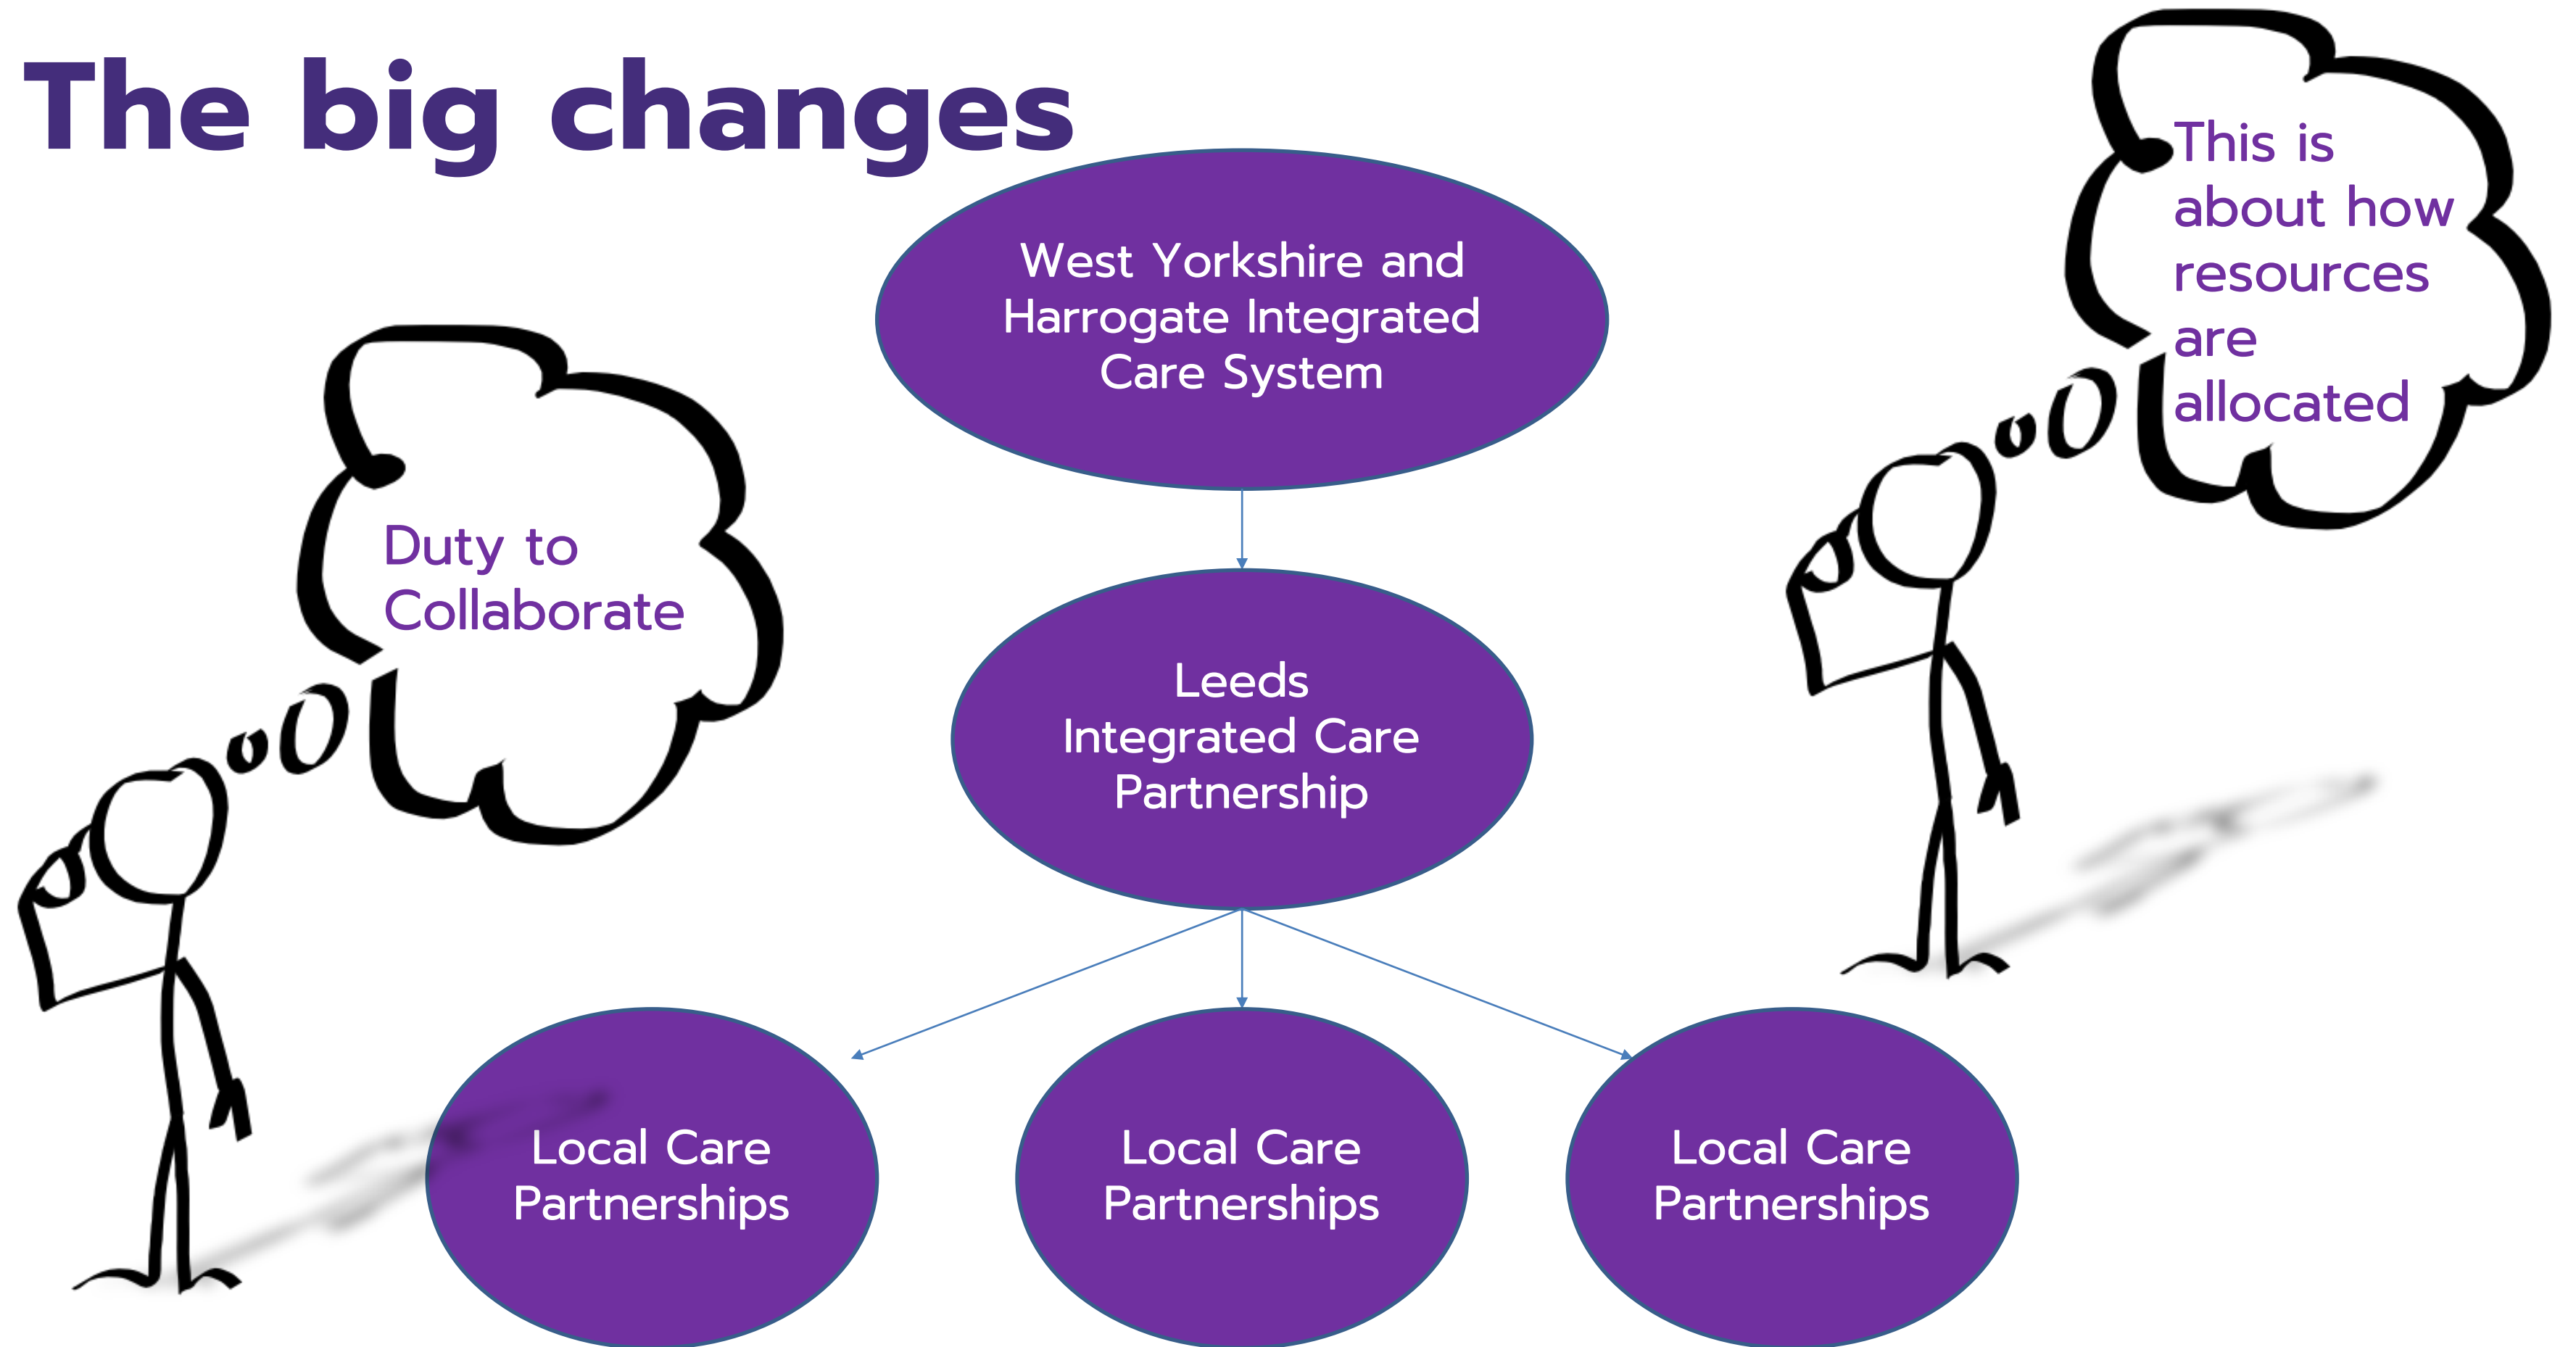

- There's still going to be a lot of curing to do...
 - Improve how that happens...
- Better for people &
- Releases resources to focus on prevention
- The third sector plays an important role now and the role should be bigger in the future

Building from firm foundations

The big changes

Opportunities and Challenges

- ☺ 'The System' sees the third sector as part of the solution
- ☺ Voice at every level
- ☺ Duty to Collaborate might open new doors – a different way of distributing resources?

- ? At, or near to, the big decisions
- ? Voice and capacity of smaller and specialist organisations
- ? Neighbourhood structures and engaging with them